

Jackie Camardo

847-347-4420
jaclyn.camardo@gmail.com

Education

University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT

Bachelor of Science, Major: Physiology and Neurobiology, Minor: Neuroscience

Overall GPA: 3.55/4.0

Upper Level Courses: Enhanced Human Anatomy and Physiology, Biochemistry, Molecular Genetics, Stem Cell Biology, Investigations in Neurobiology, Biology of the Brain, Physiological Psychology, Endocrinology

Work Experience

Counseling Program for Intercollegiate Athletes, Storrs, CT

Academic Tutor, September 2010-June 2012

- Demonstrate and communicate proper problem-solving skills and learning development in the subjects of biology, physics, and chemistry with undergraduate student-athletes

Children's Memorial Research Center, Chicago, IL

Assistant Laboratory Researcher, Summer 2011

- Understanding the molecular basis of the genetic-neuromuscular disease Spinal Muscular Atrophy
- Applying procedures maintained in the lab-PCR, basic mouse dissections, and tissue collection

Activities and Volunteer

Division I Women's Ice Hockey, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT, Student-Athlete, September 2008-March 2011

- Demonstrate commitment, dedication, and self-motivation within a team environment
- Master time-management skills while balancing practice, conditioning, traveling, and academic course load

Children's Memorial Hospital Psychology Department, Chicago, IL, Research Volunteer, June- August 2011

- Illustrate procedures of the clinical study Project Eat
- Retrieve and input data into Microsoft excel and perform statistical tests

Northwest Community Hospital, Pediatric Emergency Room and Day Surgery Center, Arlington Heights, IL, Volunteer, June 2009-August 2012 (Summers)

- Assist physicians and nurses in daily tasks such as transporting patients, assisting with basic medical procedures, accompanying patients and their families.